ANNUAL REPORT
2017

Looking back at 2017 reminds me of how grateful I am to the many people who make the Bailey-Matthews National Shell Museum a great educational organization: Our Board of Trustees, our volunteers, our local officials and supporters, and, of course, our fabulous staff members who greet visitors from around the world 364 days a year.

We had some important milestones this year connecting with more people in more ways. Our collection is entirely online through a multi-museum partnership with iDigBio. Our brand-new Mollusks on the Move van travels all around our region bringing education to land-locked kids. Our Shell Ambassador program now numbers 140 strong (and growing). Our scientific staff is publishing new research findings and going where "no one has gone before," as we expand our live collection. And, our Trip Advisor ratings prove that our visitors love us more than ever before.

Behind the scenes, our Board of Trustees and Campaign Cabinet have been working tirelessly to help us envision, create, and fund the transformation of your Shell Museum. We'll bring the amazing world of mollusks alive for our guests, connecting the shell lovers with the shell creators each and every day. There are more mollusks in the ocean than any other group of animals: it's time we all knew a lot more about them. Stay tuned!
